IN PARTNERSHIP WITH

A Unique Opportunity

Inesperanto is thrilled to introduce an exceptional opportunity tailored for Australian organizations active in the regenerative medicine sector. Through our collaboration with CCRM Australia, we are extending substantial financial support to help alleviate patenting costs and bolster Australia's regenerative medicine and advanced therapies sector.

Inesperanto, a globally recognised patent foreign filing and translation service provider, has established the ground-breaking Inesperanto Innovation Fund dedicated to providing financial support to select Australian organisations. Regardless of their affiliation with the CCRM Australia Partner Network, eligible Australian organisations can benefit from grants to fortify their intellectual property portfolios and foster innovation, while significantly reducing the financial burden of patent drafting and prosecution.

In summary, Inesperanto offers grants to cover up to 50% of all patent attorney drafting fees for each new patent application filed (in collaboration with an agreed Inesperanto Partner Counsel).

With a network of over 500 global Partner Counsels to choose from, Inesperanto ensures widespread accessibility and support for Australian organisations in the regenerative medicine sector. Inesperanto does not require any equity, rights or ownership in return for the Grant, and the money does not need to be repaid.

To explore this opportunity further and to inquire about the amount of grant you may be eligible to potentially receive, please fill in a short online application form or contact us at innovation@insperanto.com.

What People Say

I would like to share a “science fiction” story. One day I met Karen Sealine and she offered us a grant to cover 50% of MICA’s next patent submission. I thought that I had misheard her, but after a short meeting with her and her partners, I understood the logic behind the business model. To make a long story short, we are on our way to patent #3 with a great strategy in place, prepared by The Reinhold Cohn Group and financed 50% by Insperanto! Thanks to the grant we received from Insperanto, we now have available funds for more R&D which will put us ahead of the game in record time.

Excite International is very pleased to collaborate with Insperanto for the purpose of funding tech companies in the health sector to scale their patent portfolio. Insperanto’s funding helps our tech companies increase the value of their company and IP.

Receiving support from the Insperanto Innovation Fund was a smooth and transparent process. Karen was our main contact point, and I was always impressed by her fast communication, always within 24 hours! The transfer of funds was made promptly, after just a few days of submitting the invoices. I honestly look forward to working with Karen and Insperanto again in the future.

Insperanto's support not only helped us at an early stage to develop our IP strategy, their generous funding also helped us execute on that strategy. We recommend working with Insperanto to help navigate the complexities of global IP protection.
